Dear Dr. Kaiser:

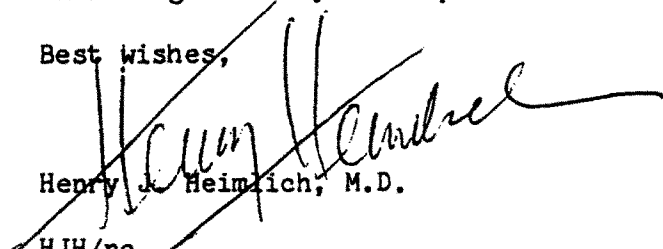

Last week, thanks to your introduction, my research associate Dr. Gerson Carr and I visited Dr. David Clyde at the University of Maryland and Col. Jeffrey Chulay at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research. They were most generous in describing their methods for inducing malaria and related experience.

Your offer to provide Plasmodium vivax in the manner described in your letter of May 29, 1987 is most supportive. We are proceeding with the program at this end and will remain in touch as we progress.

The enclosed paper "Malaria: an Intra-erythrocytic Neoplasm?", although drawing broad conclusions is an interesting link regarding our concept of malariatherapy in cancer.

Thanks again for your cooperation and encouragement.

Best wishes,

Henry J. Heimlich, M.D.
